
Title: Spirit Search

Author: Geritain Dehugh

My travels have taken me back to Yew. I am very careful to avoid interacting with Kallie as I feel it is better if she does not see me till the problem is resolved. While at the abbey attempting to find out where they used to burn people I met a man by the name of Laethan. He has been recently been staying in Yew attending the shrine of love in the Empath Abbey. Laethan is an elderly man with extremely white hair and darkened skin. When I told him of the story of Natasha and Galistad he seemed to recall the woman Natasha being burned in Yew long ago when he was young. He told me of where I might find this area of where she was burned and it was not too far from the Abbey. I shall have to make sure I speak to this man further after I pay visit to this area.
I found the location of the place being the marking of a dead patch of grass in a semi open field. My first thoughts were of Galistad digging into the dirt to uncover the book bound in skin.
What kind of skin would he be referring to? I have come to understand that in previous tales that there was a great talk of a book bound in skin called "The Book of the Dead" I cannot but help wonder if this is the very same book. In any case as I knelt and began concentrating my thoughts on Natasha in hopes that she might visit me. Alas I have not seen a sign of her yet so I will spend the night here in hopes I may encounter her in the evening hours.

What is this and where am I.

A soul.....